Railroad Building In Corsica.

After going about half the distance between Corte and Vizzavona the evidences of the construction of the intermediate sections of the railroad became apparent. The laborers on the excavations for the bridges and in the heavy outs were, many of them, women, young girls and boys, and all, including the men, carried the dirt and stone out in baskets on their heads. By this slow, toilsome method is all this work done, and it appeared to me that the work would be interminable, but I was told that the contractors were under heavy bonds to complete the road in the time contracted for and that it would certainly be accomplished.-Charles H. Adams in Century.

Rapid Transit to Australia. I hear that a respectable north country merchant has invented a means for getting to Australia in 12 hours-a means so simple that I fancy it must have occurred to a good many people al-ready. Every one knows that the world spins round on its axis once in 24 hours, whence it is clear that, if you hang yourself up somewhere and wait, in 13 hours Australia will be under your feet, and you will only have to step down in order to be comfortably there. The good merchant proposes to send passengers up in a well appointed balloon, where they will wait until Australia comes round. It is an admirable scheme. - Pall Mall Builget
